NOTES

This list is by no means complete and changes constantly. Always check classes and stats of items before you trade your money.

If you have any updates or remarks about this list, send an e-mail to akebono@cistron.nl.

The maker of this list does not accept any responsibility for mistakes and/or ambiguities in this list. Use at your own risk.

As for now, the list does not contain cultural armour or items that only have charges and no stats.

STATS (GENERAL)

Score

people might prefer a high resistance item rather than a high int/mana item. The score therefore is nothing but an indication.

Price This column will gradually be filled in with prices from www.eqprices.com in a future version.

Name The item's name

Zone The zone where the item can be found.

Remarks The name of the quest or mob via which you can obtain the item.

Chrgs The name of the spell that can be charged with the item.

WEIGHT

3 AC is important, but not that important for a wizard. Once your AC is needed, you're already dead in most cases. Still AC can be useful for deliberate taunts etc.
0 Useless for wizards, if you play them the wizard way.
0 Useless for wizards, if you play them the wizard way.
2,2 Results in a little extra HP
0 Nice for buying, but not necessary for fighting.
0 More or less useless for wizards.
20 This is the most important wizard stat. The more int, the more mana. The higher your level, the more important int becomes.
0 Useless for wizards, if you play them the wizard way.
1 HP is important, but not that important for a wizard. It's more important than AC though, since you can loose HP when spells are cast on you.
2 The second most important stat for wizards. The weighting factor is a lot lower than that of int, because 1 int is about 10 mana when you're level 50.
5 Very important, especially later in the game. Do not underestimate the importance of resistance. You can't do without it.
